MICROTURBO

MICROTURBO was founded in 1961 and employs today 600 people. MICROTURBO, a subsidiary of Turbomeca and a part of the SAFRAN Group of companies, is one of the world leaders in gas turbine applications, with electrical power up to 350 kW and thrust up to 600 daN. MICROTURBO is specialized in the design, development and production of turbojet engines for applications on missiles, target drones and remotely piloted vehicles (missiles Sea Eagle, Apache A, Storm Shadow / Scalp EG from MBDA, NSM from Kongsberg Defence & Aerospace, etc.). MICROTURBO designs and manufactures a wide range of starters. Depending on aircraft architecture, power transfer can be either mechanical or pneumatic. MICROTURBO designs and manufactures APUs which simultaneously supply electrical energy and an air bleed for the air conditioning system, both on the ground and in flight. They are integrated in a wide range of civil aircraft (Falcon, Bombardier water bomber CL415), military aircraft (Jaguar, Hawk, Rafale) or helicopters (Super Puma and NH90). Microturbo has officially launched last year a new generation of APU providing exclusively electrical power (the e-APU) which is dedicated to business jets aircraft family. MICROTURBO products ground power units (GPUs), with a range of power from 20 kW to 150 kW (Armoured Fighting Vehicles, Ground Starters for airplanes, Smoke Generators, turbo pumps). For further information, you can visit the following web sites: MICROTURBO : www.microtubo.fr
